THE EVENING POST.

LIQUOR LICENSE REPORTS. Major Moore Indorses a Large Number of Applications, The applications for barroom licenses were filed earlier this year than ever before. This action is doubtless due to the Increasing opposition against the bquor business, besides the almost unlimited power conceded by the courts to the Commissioners in the matter of granting or refusing liquor licenses. great many saloon keepers hoped that by getting their cases before the Commissioners with a favorable police report, before the anti-saloon warfare begins in earnest, they would be stealing a march on their less vigilant neighbors. If the Commissioners decide to exercise their discretion in reducing the number of saloons in neighborhoods where they are very numerous there will be many an application refused. Commissioner Webb stated to a Post reporter that he is inclined to refuse them where they are too thick, but the board will have to determine what action will be

There are about a hundred applica-tions which have been reported on by the police, and which now await the stamp of approval or rejection by the Commissioners. In reporting on every application, core is taken to state the number of other barrooms in the same vicinity.

Accompanying Patrick H. Shochy's application for a license to keep a bar room at 2030 Seventh street is a protest signed by W. W. Patton, president of Howard University, a number of others in the university and residents on and near Seventh street road and Brightwood, calling the Compilisioners' attention to calling the Commissioners' attention to the decision in Manion's case, and ask-ing that not more than two salooms be licensed in the neighborhood of Sheehy's. Maj. Moore's report states that there are now nine other saloons besides Sheehy's in this neighborhood. Attention is also called to the poul rooms, or turf exchanges that are doing business there, and the Commissioners are requested to "decide whether one or, at the most, two saloons, will not sufficiently accommodate the public."

GONE OFF IN A HURRY.

to New York to Greet the Minister. The Chinese Legation was in commotion yesterday morning when the news was received that Minister Li Hum Chang had arrived in New York on the Pacific mail steamship Colon from Peru and Panama, where he has been spending the last few months. The Minister was expected back, but his return was not looked for so soon, and thus the numerous corps of secretaries and attaches connected with the Legation were taken by surprise. They ought to have been in New York to welcome him. As it was, two of the attaches happened to be in New York and so the Minister was not entirely without a greeting when he mail steamship Colon from Peru not entirely without a greeting when he walked down the plank from the steamer As soon as his arrival was known at the Legation the entire corps packed up and posted off for New York by the next

OELY TWO PLACES OPEN.

The Quietest Sunday Alexandria Has Known for Years, For the first time for some years the Alexandria gambling dens were closed yesterday, with two exceptions. There this city by every boat, who went in droves to their usual haunts, out the gates were barred and a smooth-faced individual greeted them sadly. Looking at the closed windows of the upper part of the house where the "tiger" had been wont to greet his victim, the sentry said, in a tone that was evidently meant to be cheerful, "Things are very dull to-day, very dull." Then his visitor would respond in a disappointed monosyllable of acquiesence. This part of the ceremony through the would-be fortune hunters would return to the corner of Union and King streets and discuss the situation The authorities were denounced for their action, The Post was abused for its course, the author of the article threatened with personal violence and the dealers condemned for their cowardly fear of the law. Thus the day pessed. Every boat that left carried back a crowd of disappointed gamblers. Their places were not left vacant long, for each boat load brought others, who, failing to get into the houses, stood on the corners and around the ferry house until the beat left for Washington. Occasionally a policeman walked down King street, swinging his baton, and then the crowd separated. Passing the houses the officer would look them over scrutinizingly, and seeing no evidence that the law was being violated, went on, while the scattered crowd would collect again and continue their interrupted discussion.

It was a novelty for Alexandrians. They could not understand how it was that the gambling element was so thoroughly cowed. Heretofore the law, while it has been the same, seemed in-operative. The glambers were arrested, fined and released, to again play their profession. Although the law provided for imprisonment upon conviction, that penalty was seldom if ever imposed, and then the sentence was merely nomical, mostly one and seldom more than ten days. Judge Stuart's admirable charge to the grand jury, upon the opening of the Corporation Court, last Monday, followed as it was by the prompt indictment of fourteen of the most prominent back ers and dealers of the game on Friday, roused the better class of citizens to the enormity of the offences they had so long condoned and regarded as necessary evils. Public sentiment was that the gamblers should go, and that every one convicted should receive the full penalty of the law, which has been so flagrantly and continuously disregarded.

A Post reporter visited the city yesterday, and, as before stated, found but two houses open. He was allowed to enter one without molestation, and going upstairs to the room where faro bank was usually dealt, found three disconsolatelooking gamblers sitting on the table and bemoaning their fate. The professionals were given a wink and directed to other quarters where a game was in full blast. There the reporter experienced considerable difficulty. The colored guardian at the door declared that the game was not in progress, and firmly but politely re-fused to allow any one but known habitues of the place to pass him. One of these told the reporter coming up on the

"Have you, or do you intend to arrest the indicted parties?"

"We have not yet."
"It strikes me, Lieutenant that this is a very accommodating city. Here are fourteen men indicted for gambling and vet no attempt is made to arrest them. Why is that?" "We cannot do it without an order from the court. That meets Tuesday, and they will issue a rule to arrest these men. Until that time our hands are tied."

Then the Lieutenant once more took up his belligerant and vituperative discourse. "I know the man who wrote these articles for The Post and he has got to settle with me. I'm not to blame if my brother chooses to run agambling house, and if I get my hands on the man who showed me up, whether I'm in uniform or not, I'll take the chances of losing my position to give him a good drubbing.

Among other statements made by Lieut. Smith was one that he could point out twelve faro banks on Pennsylvania avenue. "You may not believe it," he avenue. "You may not believe it," he said, "but I know where they are and can show them to you."

Whether the police are in sympathy with this movement against the gambling houses, is a mooted question, bu Judge Stuart, backed by the healthy public sentiment of the community, will undoubtedly succeed in driving them out of that hitherto gambler-ridden city.

The first page of the National Times (which is a very creditable specimen of the printer's art) is largely occupied by very good portraits of Cleveland and Thurman, with an inscription designating them the freedman's friends. Speaking for itself, the National Times says that it is "the official organ of the negro Democrats of the United States, and the our spoken organ of the negroes who have thrown off the political yoke of slavery."

TEMPERANCE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

Over 400 Signed the Pledge Last Year-Work of the Ladies. A meeting of the Soldiers' and Sailors A meeting of the Soldiers' and Sailors'
Department of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held yesterday afternoon at the Calvary Baptist Church.
Mrs. La Fetra presided, while several ladies of the Union occupied seats upon the platform. Miss Chase, the chairman of the depar'ment, read a very interesting report on the progress of the work during the past year. Their effort, the report showed, had been unusually successful, and on hardly a vessel which the report showed, had been unusually successful, and on hardly a vessel which the members of the department had visited did they fail to find sailors who were willing to sign the pledge and who were thankful for the tracts and books which the department furnished them.

The Home on Missouri avenue also prospered during the year, 740 people having been accommodated with lo-tings, and 1,436 meals having been served. Of this number all but 266 were paid for. The number of soldiers and sailors who signed the pledge was 448. Altogether signed the pledge was 448. Altogether the success of the work had been even greater than had been anticipated and the outlook for the ensuing year is very encouraging. When Miss Chase con-cluded, Mrs. Rowe related a few inci-

DR. HERSHEY'S CHURCH.

He Reviews Its Progress During the First Venr of Its Pastorate. Rev. Scott F. Hershey, pastor of the Sixth Presbyterian church, corner Sixth and C streets southwest, began last night a series of semons on "Future Punishment." The argument of the ser-mon last night was the standpoint of reason and common sense. At his next sermon he will base his argument on Philiad International reason and common sense. At his next sermon he will base his argument on Biblical statements in regard to future punishment. Mr. Hershey stated that crime and sin demanded punishment; that such are violation of the moral and natural law; that much crime remains unpunished during earthly life. He then followed these statements with illustrations to show that they were correct. Life, he also said, was organized as a period of probation to effect final permanence of character. At death the good or evil character of each person was determined, and accordingly reward or punishment meted out to him. In concluding his sermon Mr. Hershey dwelt upon heaven as a place of reward.

At the morning service Mr. Hershey reviewed the progress of the church during the past year, the day being the first anniversary of his service as pastor. During the year the church received fifty-eight members, of which only two were by letter. Of the entire membership thes is a growth of thirty-live per cent. The number received on confession of faith is larger than that received by any other church in the Presbytery for the same length of time.
